Special Guest Speaker:

JACQUELINE GREGG

I have always identified myself as a theater artist. Whether on stage, in television commercials, or in schools, acting has been the thing that brings me the most joy. I have worked with many different theater companies in and around NYC. I hold a BFA in Acting from Rutgers University-Mason Gross School of the Arts. Currently, I am an actor with Only Make Believe, a company that brings theater to children in hospitals and other care facilities. It's a kind of healing that doesn't require needles, drips, or a spoonful of sugar; just an imagination and a willingness to be entertained.
